

It was a week before Christmas. A sweet little old lady with white hair - lived alone in her small red brick house. She was busy making dinner for herself, when suddenly the doorbell rang. "Who could that be," she wondered, for she wasn't expecting anyone.